I am a graphic designer with the capacity to improve and build new perspectives.

Me?

I studied arts for some years, I was intrigued by painting, architecture and sculpture but for some reason, I never felt fully satisfied with it so I wandered some years through art and all its forms trying to find a place for me. I always found myself drawing, and at some point illustration made me turn my head into design, an area with visual innovation, elements, typography, color and constant change, an area that comforts my curious side.
